

Holding onto something that is good for you now, may be the very reason you don't have something better.